Poon hill is a delightful trek not only known for its great Himalayan vistas but also for some of the beautiful sunrises over the Himalayan back drop. A trek for family and anyone interested not only in hiking the Himalayas but for its fauna and flora - this trip is for you. A relatively easy hike meandering through quaint villages and famous for its rhododendrons and the magnificence of Himalayan views that one gets from the top of Poon hill, 3210 m.

Our trip begins from the bustling capital city of Kathmandu also known as Kasthamandap in the old lingo franca. Flying into the Kathmandu valley in itself is a breath taking experience with a medieval haphazard city sprawling beneath and the Himalayas so near to touch... here we explore some of the oldest and quaintest cultures of the valley.

We then take a short Himalayan flight to Pokhara an oasis of lakes and the start point of some of the most beautiful treks in the world. Our meandering hike start from Nayapul through Ulleri and Ghorepani, talking time to marvel at nature in all its glory - from the colorful orchids to the Himalayas ahead - Mt. Annapurna (8091 m) and Mt. Dhaulagiri (8167m).

It is with triumph that at Poon Hill, 3210 m., we witness one of the most awesome panoramas of the world. The amphitheater of the entire Annapurna's with rice terraces and small villages in Himalayan settings. Through our hike in this beautiful region we walk through quaint Gurung villages sampling the famed Gurung hospitality.

Perhaps some of the most memorable moments are the time we spend interacting with the local communities and our Sherpa crew that accompany you and help you understand a little more of Nepal and its people.
