The people of this region are mostly Tibetans who came from Kerung in Tibet hence the culture and traditions of these people are similar to Tibetan across the border. Since in early days, real Tibetans didn't get Nepali citizenship they changed their ethnicity to Tamang, which is what they still write till date. About 150 years ago, Nepal fought with Tibet for salt and some of the biggest war areas of that time lie in the Langtang Region of Nepal.

This trekking destination is just a day long bus journey from the capital, Kathmandu. This trek provides insights into the Tamang rituals, Tibetan culture, festivals, traditional architecture and costumes. Visitors will get an opportunity to observe Syabru, Mane and other local dances at Goljung and Gatlang VDCs. Trekkers can also shop for exclusive handicraft items like traditional caps, mufflers and other items which the villages sell. Tourists can enjoy hot bath in the healing hot-water spring at Tatopani before reaching Nagthali. The ancient monasteries and houses adorned with rich wood engravings at Thuman is yet another unforgettable experience. Also at Briddim village where there is home stay facility one gets to experience the famous Tamang hospitality.
